The Honorable Gavin Newsom
Governor-elect, State of California
California State Capitol

Re: Making SSI/SSP a Priority in the Newsom Administration

Dear Governor-elect Newsom,

Congratulations on becoming the next Governor of the state of California. Unlike any other state, California is a trendsetter, not just in the United States, but for the entire world. What we do, what we prioritize will reverberate all over the world. It is an amazing opportunity to make meaningful change and it is as challenging a task as one could imagine.

California has never been in a better economic and fiscal position than now. Governor Brown has done as he promised, to get our fiscal house in order. What is less well known is all he did to lift up the needs of low income and working Californians. By increasing the minimum wage to $15 an hour, significantly increasing the number of persons with health coverage, providing increased resources to low performing schools, creating a robust earned income tax credit and lessening the impact of fines and fees that disproportionately impacted low income California, Governor Brown has helped make life better for countless Californians too often overlooked.

While we admire all the Governor accomplished, there is a tremendous amount left to be done. Poverty in California is still the highest in the country under the Supplemental Poverty Measure and millions more are struggling to pay rent and stay housed. Inequality in our state is the worst since the 1920’s meaning that millions of working Californians are unable to handle an unexpected bill or to save for a rainy day. Some of the worst cuts from the recession have still not been restored and nearly one million children live at less than half the federal poverty level.

During the recession former Governor Schwarzenegger significantly reduced cash assistance for seniors and persons living with disabilities who rely on the federal-state SSI-SSP program. Grants for single SSI recipients were cut by $77 a month and state cost of living adjustment was permanently repealed. These devastating cuts dropped 1 million SSI recipients into poverty and they have stayed there ever since. As our housing crisis deepened and rents escalated, SSI recipients took the brunt of the impact. Many became homeless, were forced to live in vehicles and even more had to rely on emergency food assistance as a way of life. Despite large budget surpluses and robust economic times for many years, these cuts have still not been restored.

Due to the trauma we have seen across the state in the senior and disabled communities, we organized a statewide coalition to push the state to listen to the needs of persons on SSI. Californians for SSI (CA4SSI) represents more than 200 organizations across the state that have seen firsthand the distress being visited on some of our most vulnerable residents. We have been working to alleviate the crisis caused by the grant cuts and the housing crisis by repeatedly asking for the cuts to be restored. This past year we had the first real success when Governor Brown and the Legislature agreed to make SSI recipients eligible for federal SNAP benefits.

While we appreciate the significance of providing food assistance to SSI recipients, our work is hardly done. We are asking you to work with us to take the following steps to truly restore, not just the grant cuts, but the dignity of persons living on SSI.

Step 1
Restore the SSI grant cuts for both single individuals and couples so that no SSI recipient is ever again living below the federal poverty level.

Step 2
Restore the state cost of living adjustment immediately so that the grants retain their purchasing power over time.

Step 3
Finish the job of protecting families that will lose SNAP benefits when the state makes SSI recipients eligible for food assistance. Governor Brown and the Legislature provided temporary funding to “hold harmless” these families but we are calling on you to make this solution permanent.

We are inspired by your focus on solving the housing and homeless crisis afflicting our state. For too long the needs of the poor and low income working people have not been addressed. We believe that by putting these issues front and center in your administration that we can make real progress. We stand ready to work with you to help you succeed. Please do not hesitate to ask us to help you to achieve your goals. We would be honored to meet with and your Administration in January to begin the process of moving California to the next level of greatness.
